

Story 24

My husband went to Parole & Probation for a check-in and also a scheduled polygraph test. He wanted to go over his rights before beginning the test but the polygrapher Jim Sackett with metro started yelling at him and telling him that he will do it his way. My husband felt threatened. The polygrapher is supposed to make him feel comfortable and calm otherwise there is no way anyone would be able to pass under those circumstances. At that point he was arrested for supposedly not complying and they also took my phone, which I let him borrow in case of an emergency because he does not have the lock code. He is only able to read and answer phone calls. His P.O. Nicole Rosales took my phone in a search and seizure. The phone is under my name and they said it would only take a week to get back. It has now been 2 weeks and they still haven't gotten to it. I still have to pay the bill for the phone even though I have called my wireless carrier and notified them and it is costing me money for something I am not able to use. I have spoken with a lawyer and they had said the P.O. couldn't search MY phone because I am not under any type of parole, probation or supervision. I had also called Nevada Alliance of Polygraph Examiners and they told me that there have been many complaints against the polygrapher Jim Sackett. Also, his P.O. Nicole Rosales should have intervened during the misunderstanding and should have calmed everyone one down and tried to get the polygraph tests completed but she failed to do so. Instead she arrested my husband and also seized my property.

A member of Nevadans for Civil Liberties